

Sleep Train Arena

Arena title	Sleep Train Arena
Capacity	17,317
About	Sleep Train Arena , originally ARCO Arena and later Power Balance Pavilion, is an indoor arena located in Sacramento, California, United States. Opened in 1988, it is the home of the Sacramento Kings of the National Basketball Association (NBA). The arena is named for The Sleep Train, a chain of mattress and bed retailers based in Rocklin, California.
Logo	 The logo for Sleep Train Arena features the words "SLEEP" and "TRAIN" in a bold, red, sans-serif font, stacked vertically. To the right of "SLEEP" is a blue silhouette of a train engine. Below "TRAIN" is the word "ARENA" in a smaller, blue, sans-serif font.
Photo	 A wide-angle photograph of the Sleep Train Arena building. The building is a large, multi-story structure with a light-colored facade. The words "SLEEP TRAIN ARENA" are prominently displayed in white, bold letters across the top of the building. In the foreground, there is a paved area with several blue bollards and a large, golden number "6" sculpture. The sky is clear and blue, and there are trees visible in the background.